Seventh-Day Adventists Look Into Values of Home Living

A reappraisal of the character of the home is slated for members of Torrance Seventh-day Adventist Church, 1610 Acacia Ave., Torrance, Saturday, Feb. 17, and throughout the week of Feb. 17-24.

According to Pastor Glenn Goffar, the special week, which will begin with worship services Saturday morning at 11 a.m., is known as "Christian Home Week," a period in which examination of the place of Christianity in the home is done by all members of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. "During this week members will be looking inwardly at what goes on in their homes each hour of every day," Pastor Goffar said in commenting on the special week.

FAMILY LIFE

Conversation in the home, relationships of parents with children, and parents with parents will be examined in the light of practical, productive Christian living. Telephone conversations, television viewing, associations with friends, reading habits—all sorts of living within the home will be examined against the timeless values of Christianity," said Pastor Goffar.

Pastor Goffar's Saturday morning sermon, keynoting the special week, will be entitled "Death in the Pot." Pastor Goffar stated "one cherished sin in the life will neutralize all the power of the gospel."
